Our ICAgile Certified Professional – Agile Team Facilitation training course focuses on equipping you with new tools, techniques and skills to help you take your remote facilitation skills to the next level with an emphasis on learning through doing and receiving feedback, rather than through theory.

Course Learning Outcomes

Our ICAgile Certified Professional – Agile Team Facilitation training course is split into 4 unique half-day (4-hour) modules with additional work provided to support your learning journey – both before and throughout the course.

What is Agile Facilitation? – The first module is full of theory, tools and techniques about what agile facilitation is. This includes how to plan successful remote facilitation sessions, what tools might work for you and your team, a development plan for what you'd like to improve in the coming modules, and much more.

Remote Facilitation – This module covers top tips for facilitating various agile events remotely including Iteration Planning, Reviews and Retrospectives along with Daily Sync events. However, the main focus for the rest of the course will be on your facilitation of these events and getting valuable feedback from your peers.

Large Group Facilitation – After covering single team facilitation during this module, we will then explore how to facilitate multi-person/team Iteration Planning, Reviews and Retrospectives events. Once again with a focus on the practical application over theory.

Facilitation based on Team Maturity – The final module explores how facilitation changes as teams grow, with a continued emphasis on honing the remote facilitation skills you have just learned. Ensuring that when you come away, you will have an increased capability when it comes to Agile Team Facilitation.
